WHO WE ARE

From school to opportunity

Good Kenyan equips young people with the skills and mentorship to move from education into work or entrepreneurship.

This manual exists so that every poster, proposal, post and report looks like it came from the same organisation. Consistency is not decoration. It is how people recognise us, and recognition is how trust is built.

Founded 2017 · Eldoret and Nairobi · goodkenyan.org

01

Brand architecture

How the foundation, the centers and the programmes sit together.

One foundation, many centers

Good Kenyan Foundation is the parent brand. Each center carries its own mark and its own colour, but always sits under the foundation. Programmes are named in words, not marks.

Parent brand. Used alone on all foundation material, funder documents and the website.

Center brand. Center signage, events and local material.

Future centers

Each new center takes the same bracket mark, stacked, in its own assigned colour.

Programmes Msingi • Imarisha • Stawi • Daraja

Programmes never get their own logo. They are set in Lato as words, inside foundation or center material.

02

The logo

The master mark, its variants, its clear space, and how it must never be used.

Our logo

The brackets are not decoration. They hold the name the way a community holds a person, and they are the one element shared with every center mark. Never separate them from the wordmark.

File formats

- EPS or SVG for print and signage
- PNG with transparency for screen
- Never re-type or re-draw the wordmark

Give it room

Clear space on every side equals x, the height of the bracket. Nothing enters that area: no text, no photo edge, no other logo.

1.2 inches minimum

Full colour never below 1.2 inches wide. One colour never below 1 inch. On screen, never below 150 pixels wide.

Five versions, no others

Full colour

Default. Light backgrounds only.

Full colour reversed

Dark or photographic backgrounds.

One colour charcoal

Single colour print and stamps.

One colour white

Dark grounds where red will not hold.

Grayscale

Newsprint and black and white documents.

Never do this

Stretch or squeeze

The proportions are fixed. Hold shift.

Re-colour

No colour outside the approved five variants.

Rotate or stack vertically

The mark is always horizontal.

Crop the brackets

Both brackets stay, always.

Add effects

No shadow, glow, outline or gradient.

Place on a busy photo

Use a plain area or the reversed variant.

For wide spaces

A second approved lockup for formats that are much wider than they are tall. Same mark, brackets extended to the full height of the space. It is not a different logo and it never replaces the stacked master mark.

Use it for

- Roll up and pull up banners
- Website and email headers
- Signage bands and fascia
- Vehicle and stage backdrops

Never use it for

- Documents, decks or letterhead
- Social profile images or square posts
- Anything under 4 inches wide
- Merchandise of any kind

Good Kenyan, without Foundation

On merchandise the full name reads as an institution. The short form keeps the mark recognisable while letting the item feel like something a person would choose to wear.

Allowed on

T shirts, polos, caps, hoodies, totes, notebooks, water bottles, lanyards, stickers.

Never allowed on

Documents, proposals, certificates, signage, the website, email, anything a funder reads.

The word Foundation

Dropped only in the short form. It is never dropped anywhere else, including in body text.

03

Regina Yego Girls Center

Our first center, its mark, and how the two brands appear together.

Regina Yego Girls Center

Same bracket device, stacked, in center green. It never replaces the foundation mark; it sits alongside it.

Reversed, for dark and photographic backgrounds.

Center green

#77C92B

RGB 119, 201, 43

Green belongs to Regina Yego and to Regina Yego alone. It never appears in foundation material that is not about the center.

How they sit together

Foundation mark first, then a hairline, then the center mark. Equal optical weight, aligned on their centres.

Foundation leads

On anything funder facing, national, or published under the foundation name.

Center leads

On center signage, local events and material for students and their families.

Never merge

The two marks are never combined into one lockup graphic or overlapped.

Naming a new center

When a new center is named, it inherits the system rather than inventing one. Three things are fixed and one is chosen.

FIXED

The bracket device

Every center mark uses the same brackets, stacked, in the same proportions.

FIXED

The typeface

Lato, set the way the foundation wordmark is set. No new typefaces.

FIXED

The parent line

The words Good Kenyan Foundation appear on center signage and stationery.

CHOSEN

One colour

A single colour, assigned once, used the way green is used for Regina Yego.

04

Colour

The palette, the proportions, and the one rule about green.

Proportion and restraint

Off white 60

Charcoal 30

Red 10

Red is an accent, never a background for long text. If a page looks red, there is too much of it.

Red

Headlines, single words, key figures, buttons, rules. Never body copy.

Charcoal

All body text. Dark section backgrounds. The wordmark on light ground.

Off white

Page and card backgrounds. Text on charcoal and on red.

Green

Regina Yego material only. Never in a foundation document about something else.

05

Typography

One family, used with discipline.

Voice and tone

How we sound, and the rules we write by.

From school to opportunity

Good Kenyan equips young people with the skills and mentorship to move from education into work, business and further learning.

Retired: Equip and transform tomorrow

Do not reprint it. Replace it as stock runs out.

Our voice is simple, friendly and clearly passionate about the work. We are careful not to be wordy, because wordiness costs us relatability. Everything we publish should sound like a person wrote it for a person, and every interaction should feel full of possibility.

Generous

We think like a person, not a company. We keep it professional, and when we talk about young people and their transition into work, we are experts and we sound like it.

Knowledgeable and friendly. Never institutional, never pitying, never shouty.

How we set words

No hyphens or dashes

Body text uses no hyphens or dashes. The only exceptions are hyphenated surnames.

First person

We say we have, we work, we train. Not the organisation has.

British spelling

Programme, organisation, colour. One convention across everything.

Say the outcome

Name what changed. Avoid pathways, empowerment, holistic, leverage.

Dignity first

We never write about young people as problems, statistics or beneficiaries.

Numbers with denominators

Every figure carries what it is out of. 70 percent of 350 graduates.

07

Photography

What we photograph, and how we treat the people in front of the lens.

Built on one thing: hope

Photography is an enormous part of this brand. You will see photographs of people who look like they are going somewhere in almost everything we do.

We never guilt people into giving. We show the people we work with as capable and in motion. Where we show a hard reality, we pair it with what a reader can do. Our imagery is about opportunity, not need.

Do and do not

Do

- Natural light and real settings
- Eye level, never looking down at someone
- People working, learning, laughing, moving
- Ask permission and record consent
- Name the person in the caption where you can
- Keep faces sharp and backgrounds quiet

Do not

- Staged poses or stock photography
- Images that trade on pity or hardship
- Heavy filters, vignettes or fake warmth
- Anything showing the old logo on a sash or banner
- Children photographed without guardian consent
- Crowds with no one identifiable or named

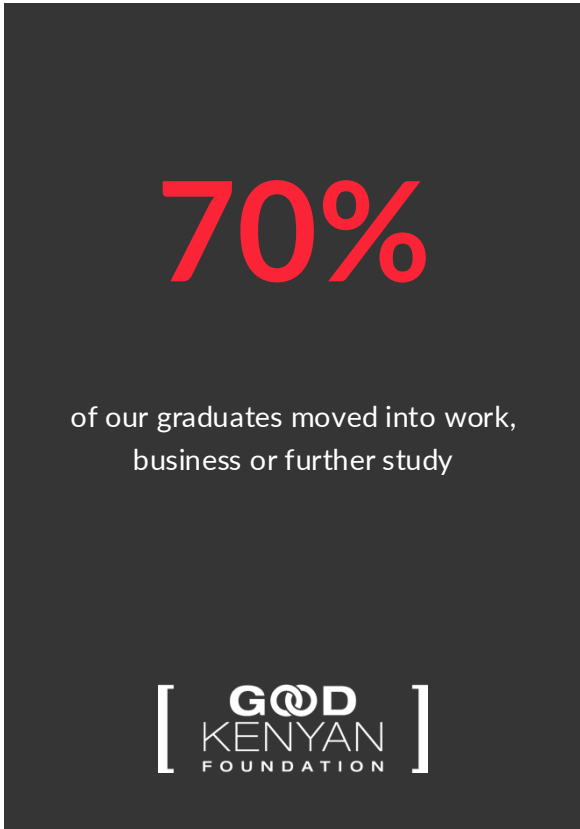

The identity in use

Event poster

Letterhead

Social stat card

Center signage

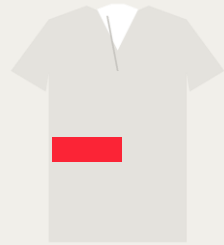

Where the mark goes

One mark per item. Placement is fixed so that a shirt printed in Eldoret and one printed in Nairobi come out the same.

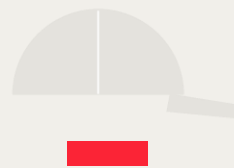

T shirt

Left chest, short form, 3 inches wide. Centred front only for event shirts.

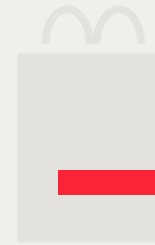

Polo

Left chest, short form, 2.5 inches. Never on the sleeve or collar.

Cap

Front panel, short form, 2.5 inches. Nothing on the peak.

Tote

Centred, one third down, short form, 5 inches.

Notebook

Lower right of the cover, short form, 2.5 inches.

One mark only

Never the short form and the full mark on the same item.

Two colourways

Full colour on light garments. Reversed white on dark garments. Nothing else.

No taglines

No slogans, no year, no programme names, no hashtags printed on merchandise.

09

Collateral

Every place the brand appears, and the standard for each one.

Everywhere the brand appears

If it carries our name it is on this list. Nothing is produced outside it without asking first.
